- grammar points: let's, gotta (have got to), present perfect continuous, will, can
- phrasal verbs: get, standing up, go over, hold out
- idioms: okay, boy, to be in the mood, stand, the other day, all right, come on, caveat, runs, just, fine, as, keep...ing, step to the left, right

.....
ELAINE:

Okay. Are we ready to go?

GEORGE:

Yes, please, please, let's go.

ELAINE:

Boy, I'm in the mood for a cheeseburger.

JERRY:

No...we gotta go to the soup place.

ELAINE:

What soup place?

GEORGE:

Oh, there's a soup stand, Kramer's been going there.

JERRY:

He's always raving. I finally got a chance to go there the other day, and I tell you this, you will be stunned.

ELAINE:

Stunned by soup?

JERRY:

You can't eat this soup standing up, your knees buckle.

ELAINE:

Huh. All right. Come on.

JERRY:

There's only one caveat -- the guy who runs the place is a little temperamental, especially about the ordering procedure. He's secretly referred to as "The Soup Nazi".

ELAINE:

Why? What happens if you don't order right?

JERRY:

He yells and you don't get your soup.

ELAINE:
What?

JERRY:
Just follow the ordering procedure and you will be fine.

GEORGE:
All right, all right. Let's - let's go over that again.

JERRY:
All right, as you walk in the place, move immediately to your right.

ELAINE:
What?

JERRY:
The main thing is to keep the line moving.

GEORGE:
All right, so, you hold out your money, speak your soup in a loud, clear voice, step to the left, and receive.

JERRY:
Right. It's very important not to embellish on your order. No extraneous comments. No questions. No compliments.

ELAINE:
Oh, boy, I'm really scared!

JERRY:
Elaine.

ELAINE:
All right, Jerry, that's enough now about "The Soup Nazi".
