BRANDON:

MARIANNE:

MARIANNE:

BRANDON:

MARIANNE:

BRANDON:
do you feel that?

MARIANNE:

BRANDON:
it's a remnant

MARIANNE:
a remnant...

BRANDON:
yeah, from the neanderthals,
there are only a few of us left since the homo-sapians took over

MARIANNE:
ok, that would explain the forehead

BRANDON:
what's that supposed to mean?

MARIANNE:

BRANDON:
what do you mean?

MARIANNE:
seriously, how did you get it? what is it?

BRANDON:
i used to play this game with my cousin

MARIANNE:
um hum

BRANDON:
where i'd sit on his feet, and he'd fly me through the air;
i hit my head off the ceiling and i blacked out;
i was knocked out for five or ten minutes; i peed in my pants

MARIANNE:
oh...

BRANDON:
if you had a choice to live in the past or the future,
and you could be anything you wanted to be, what would you be?

MARIANNE:
what would you be?

BRANDON:
well, i always wanted to be a musician in the sixties

MARIANNE:
that's cool, musician?

BRANDON:
yeah

MARIANNE:
the sixties is tough though;
i saw "give me shelter" recently, you know? the rolling stones documentary?

BRANDON: yeah

MARIANNE:
kind of seemed like hell

BRANDON:
what?

MARIANNE:
yeah, the sixties would be like the last place i would want to be

BRANDON:
no way!

MARIANNE:
yes! chaos

BRANDON:
ok, so where would you and what would you want to be?

MARIANNE:
um...i don't know, here, now

BRANDON:
that's boring

MARIANNE:
well, this is me...

BRANDON:
this is you?

MARIANNE:
this is me...thank you very much, brandon

BRANDON:

MARIANNE:

BRANDON:

MARIANNE:
